Hiring Support Workers: First Steps

Presented by Judith McGill

Having some form of Individualized Funding (including SSAH) can be extremely helpful in building a meaningful life for yourself or your family member. Support Workers are critical to making many of the “good things” happen in people’s lives. Before starting the interview process with potential Support Workers, it is important to consider not only what is needed in a Support Worker, but also what role he or she will play.

This one-day reflective workshop delves into what you need to do prior to interviewing. Topics covered will include:

- *Laying a strong foundation before hiring
- *Finding the right match
- *Clarifying a Support Worker’s role

*What qualities you are looking for in a Support Worker

*Evaluating your recruitment strategies
